JUDGE BELL SPEAKS AT COURT HOUSE

Makes an Earnest Plea for the Application of Christian Standards to Politics. Reviews His Record and Asks That Inquiry be Made of His Neighbors.

Judge Percy Bell spoke at the court house in Grenada Tuesday night in the interests of his candidacy for Governor. A representative audience greeted Judge Bell, a larger audience than has greeted either of the other two gentlemen in the race, however, Judge Bell spoke under more favorable conditions than did the other two men, and, too, as the campaign progresses people become more interesteed and it is easier to get an audience.

But in passing the writer cannot fail to observe how difficult it is to get people out to listen to men who are supposed to be able to intelligently discuss vital public questions and throw light on these subjects. Somebody has observed that "the minds of people now hunt the lines of least resistance," and that "they do not care to listen at men where there is mental effort required to keep up with what is being said and to analyze the speaker's ideas." This may or may not be true, nevertheless, there sometimes appears grounds for the statement. Anyway, it does seem that when men seeking to be the business head of directing the biggest business in the State—for that's what it means to be Governor—that men and women would come out to hear candidates who have a record for decency and for morality make a speech for the purpose of sizing them up, of taking their measure. The Sentinel makes these observations not with the view of helping any particular candidate but with the view of getting the people to think more and with the view of getting them to give more serious thought to the real business of choosing their public servants.

Judge Bell was presented by Dr. J. R. Countiss, his friend and a former pastor. Dr. Countiss could hardly have spoken in higher terms of the Judge.

The whole effort of the Judge's speech, it seemed, was to get the people to realize how intimately what a governor does touches every business institution in the State, and how the character of a governor and the life he leads supposedly reflects the life and the character of the people of the State. He showed that the governor is the really controlling force behind the colleges of the State; behind the deaf and dumb institute, the insane hospital, the blind institute, the tubercular sanitarium, the state farms of 25,000 acres, and other affairs and he therefore urged that what the man who is governor has done, and what he is today, is a matter of great import to the citizenship. He asked that inquiry be made in his home town about him as a citizen, as a lawyer and as a business man, and by that he said he was willing to stand. He told of his service in the legislature and what he tried to do there. He said that he had been county superintendent of education, a legislator and a chancery judge. So as Judge he had to do with controlling and directing large estates of deceased persons, which he insisted, added greatly to his ability and competency to be governor. He stated that he realized that taxes were high, and that greater economy should be practiced in spending, yet he stated that he saw but little hope of cutting the tax rate if the growing demands of the people of the State were to be cared for. He said that the forests were being denuded and that some state-wide effort should be made towards reforesting our woodlands. He showed how many sections, particularly in south Mississippi, would soon be almost a barren waste if there were not steps taken to grow new timber.

He said that the system of assessing taxes was wrong; that there was much property escaping taxation, and he insisted that the tax assessor ought to be put on a sort of commission basis in making personal assessments. that he thought land had been taxed about enough.

He made some clever and cutting thrusts at some things which have happened in connection with very recent governors, and seemed to think that a malodorous atmosphere clung to everything these men did. He said that if made governor, he hoped he wouldn't be so little as to refuse an appointment for notary public because the man did not vote for him.

He said people had fought each other about factions, a thing that was not worth a row of beans to them in solving their problems, in caring for their farms, that "how a man voted" had been too much the test—this, he said, had been done while the vital and the serious affairs of the State were neglected. He urged that people think more along Christian lines and that they apply the test to public men that they apply to men to conduct their personal affairs; in this way only could God be honored and could the business of the State be conducted to the glory of God and in a way to make sure of better conditions for the children of today.

Judge Bell did not mention the names of a single one of his opponents nor did he call any names of others in connection with the recent politics of Mississippi but it was evident that he felt several times almost like that he would just have to call names.

His speech was an appeal for clean men in office and for an honest, sensible and business-like administration of the governor's office. It was well received, whether the Judge made any new converts for himself, is a matter that the future alone will develop.

RURAL CARRIERS TO MEET HERE MAY 30

Program Announced for Second Annual Meeting of Fourth District Rural Letter Carriers Association Which Meets in Grenada. Jeff Busby to Speak.

D. M. Taylor, secretary of the Fourth District Rural Letter Carriers Association, states that he expects an unusually large attendance at the second annual meeting of the association which will be held in Grenada on Wednesday, May 30th. A strong effort is being made to make the organization 100 per cent strong.

The program which will be carried out at the meeting has been announced as follows:

10 a. m. meeting called to order by President W. B. Box of Winona;

Welcome address by A. M. Carothers, member of Grenada bar; Welcome address on behalf of postoffice employees by J. H. Spence, Postmaster, Grenada; Address by H. B. Miller, assistant postmaster, Grenada; Address by Postoffice inspector, C. F. Bean; Address by Jeff Busby Congressman Fourth District; Appointment of Committees; 12:30 p. m. Luncheon; 2:00 p. m. Business meeting; Discussion of Rural Delivery Service and Association matters by each member present; Reports of Committees; Reports of Officers; Election of delegates to state convention; Selection of next meeting place.

The sessions of the meeting will be held in the courthouse in Grenada. Arrangements have been made to provide lunch for all who attend.

TRY TO SELL LAND TO SOLDIERS

Citizens Make Trip to Pascagoula.

Messrs W. F. Martin and J . B. Keeton made a trip to Pascagoula this week with the view of consulting with the Vocational man, who is assisting World-War veterans in getting land allotments in Mississippi, and the World War soldiers themselves with reference to locating a colony of them in Grenada County. The government will assist the soldiers in paying for the land, and will make no purchase of less than 400 seacr in the tract.

It is probable that some of these soldiers will reach Grenada next week, hence The Sentinel suggests that some steps be taken to extend them some courtesies; perhaps the lunches at the depot when they arrive might be appreciated. During the war period, there is hardly anything that the country was not ready to do for the boys who had lined up to drive back the "Hun."

RUSSELL WRITING LETTERS TO HELP FRANKLIN

Many Find Way to Conner Headquarters. J. P. Arnold Sends One. Being Without Argument Against Conner, Russell Tries to Frighten Somebody About Trusts and Combines. Committee Throws One Uuder Their Shirt.

JACKSON, MISS., May 11.—W. E. McIntyre, campaign manager for Hon. Sennett Conner, candidate for governor, states that Conner's headquarters are having many letters sent in to them from different parts of the state, like the one below which was addressed to Mr. J. P. Arnold of Holcomb, Grenada County, Miss.

With reference to this letter and others, Conner's campaign headquarters issues the following statement:

"Mr. J. P. Arnold, a farmer and a Confederate soldier, and one of the good citizens of Holcomb, sent us the letter below, which speaks for itself. The letter to Mr. Arnold is but one of the many of a similar nature which are coming to Mr. Conner's headquarters nearly every day. This will show that Governor Russell is constituting himself one of the campaign managers for Mr. Franklin, and that it would not be improper to place a sign over the executive offices, reading thus: 'Headquarters of L. C. Franklin, Governor Russell's Candidate for Governor.'

"We would like to know, through curiosity, whether the employe of the state, the private stenographer of Mr. Russell, received any extra compensation for sending out this letter and the many similar ones mailed out on stationery of the executive office, also whether the state pays the expenses of the stationery and stamps for mailing these letters.

"The time has past when any man in Mississippi can dictate his successor in office. It seems to us that Governor Russell is afflicted with a nightmare, and that he must dream of Conner when he is asleep at night, because he writes about him during his waking hours. He knows that in the event Conner is elected governor, the books of the executive office will be opened and that the people of Mississippi will have an opportunity to read of his official acts and doings.

"In our opinion, Governor Russell is so discredited in the minds of the thinking people of Mississippi that it is unnecessary for us to deny the malicious insinuations contained in Mr. Russell's letter relative to Mr. Conner's being the tool of the trusts and combines. The people of Mississippi know Conner's record, and that he has always been true to the people's interests, Governor Russell's statement notwithstanding.

"Surely, 'His Excellency,' the governor, is a vain and pompous man. The people are wondering what meat this Caesar has fed upon that he has become so great, mighty and powerful."

Personal and Confidential.

Mr. J. P. Arnold, Holcomb, Miss.:

Dear Sir and Friend—I know you fully realize that Mississippi faces a crisis. The issues of the present campaign are clear cut and well defined. The trusts, combines and predatory interests see their first hope in many years to get a strangle hold upon this government. They want the revenue agent's office destroyed; they want the infamous insurance rating bill; they favor anything the insurance trusts want. They expect to use Conner and Whitfield as their tools. Slowly and surely Earl Brewer, Pat Harrison, the insurance and other trusts are concentrating their forces behind Conner, who has been their willing tool all these years. He has fawned upon them and done their bidding at every turn. The antis saw their predicament with Conner and Whitfield both in the race and they are now delighted. They saw that Franklin had a good chance to win in the first primary and are glad that Bilbo is in the race. For a long while it looked like this trouble-maker would not run. Bell has no support anywhere.

Remember this: Vardaman detests Bilbo because Bilbo betrayed him for Pat Harrison and for many other reasons. Bilbo joined with Brewer and all my enemies to bring about my downfall in the infamous Birkhead case. For nearly three years Bilbo and Swep Taylor have sung the song of Franklin, but now they have changed their tune and have gone whole-souled into the hands of the antis and these common enemies of ours are tickled to death. Why? Who is demanding that Bilbo run? Nobody but Swep Taylor and an overjealous and deluded few. Brewer and Pat Harrison have been here for days in conference with Conner and his gang. They will get up unlimited money.

This letter to you, therefore, is this: Do not let our forces split. Bilbo is a political impossibility. We can look for him to sling mud and slime as usual. He knows the antis will be delighted. Franklin can easily win if our friends will ignore Bilbo. If Bilbo gets many votes it will give hope to the antis in the second primary; they all admit that Franklin will be in the second. The antis won't vote for Bilbo and none of our friends should, because he has been their common enemy for several years; he has not spoken to me for over two years. You saw his dirty interviews about me in the papers.

Another thing—any sensible man knows that we cannot run safe with two candidates. Bilbo, Swep Taylor and our leading friends selected Franklin and now they are trying to betray him. Our friends should not stand for this. You will know best how to handle this situation, but Bilbo's entry is a dastardly attempt to ruin our party and turn this government over to the common enemy.

The newspapers are practically all against us. We must counteract this by organization. We can lick the common enemy but our only enemy is in our own ranks, and his name is—Bilbo. I have no feeling against Bilbo, yet his treatment of me would warrant any sort of resentment, but I write for the good of the party; we cannot run two candidates; we cannot elect Bilbo no matter how hard we try, and therefore the only salvation is to stick to Franklin and organize by doing fast work throughout the state.

Please let me hear from you at once. Your friend,

(Signed) LEE M. RUSSELL,
Governor.

WHITFIELD HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

Prof. Henry L. Whitfield, candidate for Governor, spent Sunday night and Monday until noon in Grenada. He came up from Winona in his Ford car and expected to go from here Monday morning to Batesville, but could not make the trip for the rain, and had to leave his car and take the train.

Prof. Whitfield, like the other three candidates for Governor, has the "hot foot" just now. He is going from place to place and making speeches and shaking hands with the "dear people."

Mr. Whitfield spent something like an hour at The Sentinel office where many pleasantries were indulged in at the expense of the candidates and the "politicians." He seemed to be in fine spirits and like almost all candidates, he feels that he is going to win. Just somehow it appears that when men begin to make the race for public office, the winning feeling begets them and just won't leave them alone. But how can a man do anything successfully, unless he is hopeful, unless he believes he is going to win the fight?

Mr. Whitfield is playing a new role. He is in a game entirely new to him and regardless of the outcome of the race, The Sentinel ventures that when the contest is over he will be ready to say with the other gentlemen in the race that he learned more during the twelve months he was making this race than he has in any twelve months since he entered upon life's sterner duties.

DETAIL PAY ROLL OF STATE NORMAL COLLEGE

Furnished by the State Auditor. Total Payroll Runs Over Seventy-eight Thousand Dollars for the Year. If Any Activities on the Side, They Are Not Shown.

As Sentinel readers recall, some weeks ago there appeared in these columns at different times the pay-roll for February of the A. & M. College, the University and Mississippi State College for Women at Columbus. Some of the authorities of the Colleges whose pay-rolls were published, almost complained that they were singled out and that the pay-roll of the Mississippi Normal College at Hattiesburg was not published. Thus it was that when the Editor of this paper was in Jackson recently he applied at the Auditor's office for a copy of the monthly pay-roll of the Normal College, but was advised that it was not on file, however, the Auditor's office stated that it would get the pay-roll and mail this office. But instead of the monthly pay-roll, the salaries for the year are named. It is the case with some of these institutions, that there are certain activities on the side or means for meeting certain conditions whereby a profit is sometimes made over and above what it costs to operate this "side" activity, but if there any of these "side activities" at the Normal College and if there are any funds derived fro mthem, this report does not s[illegible]

House bill No. 274, as shown in Chapter 13, the legislative acts of 1922, shows that the total annual appropriations for the Mississippi Normal College for each of the years 1922 and 1923 was $89,050.00

The same bill carries this proviso; "Provided that the salary of the head of this institution shall not exceed $4000. per annum, and the salary of no head of the different departments of this institute shall exceed $3000. per annum."

It will be observed that the total as shown on the pay-roll runs to $78,420.00.

GRENADA HAS A GOLF CLUB

Some of Grenada's business men, realizing the need of physical exercise and thinking that something like Golf-playing would add greatly to health, have organized a golf club. What is known as the "Cuff land," south of town and east of the rail road has been secured and the ground prepared.

The officers are: President, C. B. Huggins; vice president, William Wright; Secretary B. J. Anderson; treasurer, B. C. Adams.

TO ACT ON PAVING NEXT MONTH

Committee of Citizens Named to Act With Street Committee in Considering Matter. Probably Will Issue Loan Certificates Instead of Trying Bond Issue to Get Money.

The City Council met in adjourned session Monday night to still further consider the paving of the streets listed for consideration.

Objections filed by a majority of the property owners excluded Green street from the public square, or from First to Second streets and College street between South and Margin.

A committee of citizens was named to act in an advisory capacity with the City Council, and especially with Mayor Tatum and the street committee, as to the cost and advisability of paving ,and also as to what character of material should be used.

The committee named was as follows:Main street, T. E. Heath; Margin street, H. J. Ray; Second street, Dr. J. W. Young; South street, L. J. Doak; Line street, W. B. Hoffa; Harvey street, R. H. Stokes; J. H. Murray and F. T. Gerard constitute the official street committee.

It is understood that Prof. J. H. Dorroh of the University of Mississippi has been employed as engineer, and that he will be requested to prepare plans and specifications and to make an estimate of the probable cost of paving.

The Council, it seems to be understood, does not expect to issue bonds to secure the funds to pay the cost of the paving, but it is planned to issue loan certificates something that can be done without the delay incident to a bond election.

Granting that there will not be any hitch or delay in the proceedings anywhere, it would appear that the actual work of paving could not be started before July 1.

NEXT WEEK IS CLEAN-UP WEEK

The Civic Department of the Woman's Club has designated May 21 to 26 as clean up week.

Lets make Grenada the cleanest, most attractive town in the state.

The town has been divided into sections as follows:

Section 1.—From Bell to Line, south to Jefferson, west to Plum, Mrs. R. Pressgrove.

Section 2.—From Margin to Line south to Bell, west to Plum , Mrs. J. C. Prose.

Section 3.—From Commerce down Margin to College, north to R. R. west to Commerce, Mrs. J. G. Wright.

Section 4.—Down Margin from College to Line, north to R .R. west to College and south to Margin, Miss Mary Knox.

Section 5.—From Jefferson up Line to College Ave., east to Franklin and south to Jefferson, Mrs. R. B. Townes.

Section 6.—North side College Ave., to Line, both sides 4th Street to Franklin and south on Franklin to College Ave., Mrs. Drew Roane.

Section 7.—From I .C. R. R. on 3rd Street west to Line, north to 2nd and east to R. R., Mrs. E. E. Penn.

Section 8.—From Line down north side 2nd Street to R. R. north to 1st Street, down 1st Street to Church, Mrs. J. E. Lufkin.

Section 9.—All residences north of 1st Street from R .R. to Line, Mrs. W. F. Hallam.

Section 10.—East of R .R. from brick yard to 1st Street, Mrs. H. C. Whitaker.

Section 11.—West of Commerce and Plum to Telegraph from south Street, Miss Mamie Cuff.

Section 12.—All residences south of Jefferson and Cemetery Road, Mrs. T. B. Grantham .

Mrs. C. C .Penn, Chairman

If C. B. Huggins, will call at The Sentinel office he will be presented with a free ticket to "The Gentleman from America," featuring Hoot Gibson, which will be shown at Grenada Opera House next Friday May 25.

Queer Feelings

"Some time ago, I was very irregular," writes Mrs. Cora Robie, of Pikeville, Ky. "I suffered a great deal, and knew I must do something for this condition. I suffered mostly with my back and a weakness in my limbs. I would have dreadful headaches. I had hot flashes and very queer feelings, and oh, how my head hurt! I read of

CARDUI

and of others, who seemed to have the same troubles I had, being benefited, so I began to use it. I found it most beneficial. I took several bottles . . . . and was made so much better I didn't have any more trouble of this kind. It regulated me."

Cardui has been found very helpful in the correction of many cases of painful female disorders, such as Mrs. Robie mentions above. If you suffer as she did, take Cardui—a purely vegetable, medicinal tonic, in use for more than 40 years. It should help you.

LESSON FOR MAY 20

ELIJAH, THE BRAVE REFORMER

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 18:17-46.

GOLDEN TEXT—Choose you this day whom ye will serve.—Joshua 24:15.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Malachi 4: 5, 6; Matthew 11:14; 16:14; Luke 1:17; John 1:21-25; James 5:17, 18.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Elijah and the Poor Woman.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Elijah's Wonderful Victory.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Elijah Defied Wickedness.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Modern Reformers Can Learn from Elijah.

I. Elijah Meets Ahab. (vv. 17, 18).

At the Lord's command Elijah showed himself to Ahab. When Elijah last was seen by Ahab he announced that rain would only be given by his word (17:1). In connection with the prophet's appearance before the king, rain was promised.

1. Ahab's Question. "Art thou he that troubleth Israel?" (v. 17). Ahab's aim was to intimidate Elijah, to awe him into submission.

2. Elijah's Answer. (v. 18). He denied the charge and boldly declared that the calamity which had befallen the nation was caused by the idolatry of Ahab and his family.

II. Elijah's Challenge. (vv. 19-24).

1. The People Assembled. (vv. 19, 20). The king convened the people at the urgent request of Elijah.

2. Elijah's Ringing Call to Decision (vv. 21-24). (1) The question asked, "Who is your God, Baal or the Lord?" (v. 21). Many of the people had not wholly forsaken God. They attempted to worship both God and Baal. Many today are halting between two opinions. They are halting between self and Savior, sin and holiness, mammon and God. (2) The silence of the people. (v. 21). This may have been because of fear of the king or of ignorance, for many were of the opinion that to be religious was the only thing necessary, irrespective of the being worshiped. There is all the difference between merely worshiping and really worshiping God that there is between hell and heaven. (3) The method of decision (vv. 22-24). Two sacrifices were to be provided—one to be offered to Baal, the other to God. The god who answered by fire was to be the God. The people consented that this was a fair test. Accepted sacrifice is the grand and supreme test by which God is calling upon men everywhere to make the decision between Christ and the heathen gods.

III. The Test Applied. (vv. 25-29).

1. The Offering by the Prophets of Baal (vv. 25-29). Elijah gave the prophets of Baal the first opportunity to prove to the people as to whether Baal was a real god. The real difference in the issue of prayer is the person to whom prayer is made.

2. The Offering by Elijah (vv. 30-39). (1) The people invited near (v. 30). His object was for them to see the entire proceedings in order to fully grasp the genuineness of the test. (2). The altar repairs (vv. 30-32). Elijah took twelve stones representing the united nation. (3). The offering on the altar (vv. 33-35). After the bullock was in place he had four barrels of water three times emptied upon the sacrifice and the wood so as to fill the trench about the altar. So sure was Elijah that God's power was sufficient that he heaped difficulty upon difficulty. (4). Elijah's prayer (vv. 36, 37). (a) It was based upon covenants (v. 36). The foundation upon which all real prayer rests is covenant relationship. (b) Its object was God's exaltation (v. 36). Elijah was jealous for God's glory. His supreme desire was to honor and magnify the Lord. (c) It was for the salvation of the people. (v. 37). His heart yearned after Israel. He was most desirous that they should come to God. (5) The result (vv. 38, 39). (a) The fire of the Lord fell and consumed not only the sacrifice but the wood, stones and dust, even licking up the water in the trench. (b) The people fell on their faces and confessed that the Lord was the God.

IV. The Execution of Baal's Prophets. (v. 40).

The reason for this drastic action was that Israel's government was a theocracy. God was their king. Idolatry was treason against the king. These false prophets were traitors to God and therefore should die.

V. God's Prophet Vindicated. (vv. 41-46).

The proof that Elijah was God's prophet was incomplete till rain came. Israel under his ministry had now turned back to God and God made known unto them His graciousness.

LESSON FOR MAY 27

ISAIAH, THE STATESMAN AND PROPHET

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 6:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—Here am I, send me.—Isaiah 6:8.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Chronicles 26:22; 32:20; Isaiah 1:5; 7:1-17; 8:1-4; 9:1-7; 11:1-10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Isaiah Who Was Ready.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Isaiah's Call to Service.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Isaiah's Work for His People.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Isaiah, the Statesman and Prophet.

I. Isaiah's Vision of the Lord (vv. 1-4).

No one's ministry will ever be fruitful until he has had a vision of Jehovah. The scope of his tasks and the power to perform services will be lacking until he sees God.

1. He Saw the Lord on His Throne (v. 1). The prophet's gaze penetrated to the very throne of the eternal. We need not so much know things concerning God as to have a vision of Him, even to see Him on His throne. Surely now, as perhaps never before, with the awful darkness settling down upon the world and the foundations of culture and civilization, institutions and governments are tottering, we need a vision of the enthroned Lord.

2. He Saw the Seraphim Above. (vv. 2, 3). Whatever form or rank these things have, they clearly are ministers of the Most High. Their standing indicates that they were in readiness to do His bidding. Their equipment with six wings shows the celerity with which they executed His will. In the Divine presence they find different uses for wings. One pair was needed to veil the seraph's head from the "intolerable effulgence" of the glory. One pair veiled the feet, which had been soiled in the execution of the commission. The third pair was suspended in midair while waiting to depart on any errand which the Lord willed. All ceaselessly cried, "Holy, holy, holy." The supreme attribute of Jehovah is holiness. It is for this that His creatures worship and adore Him. The treble repetition doubtless refers to the triune God. Holy is the One who created us, holy is the One who redeemed us and holy is the One who sanctifies and keeps us. From the position of God's throne they see the whole earth filled with His glory.

3. He Saw Manifestations of Majesty (v. 4). As the holy ones cried the very door posts moved and the temple was filled with smoke. Smoke indicates the Divine presence in anger (Ex. 19:8; 20:18). This indicated that the selfishness, idolatry and ingratitude of Israel provoked God's anger.

II. Isaiah's Conviction of Sin (v. 6).

When the prophet got a vision of the holy God he was smitten with a sense of sin. This is always true. The reason that men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile. He realized that he had sinned in speech and, if in speech, then in heart, therefore the cry of despair. He was not only guilty himself, but was living in the midst of an unclean people.

III. Isaiah Cleansed From Sin (vv. 6, 7).

Having been convicted of sin and having made confession of it, a burning coal was taken from the altar to purge away his sin. His penitential guilt was forgiven and removed. Those unclean lips were refined by fire and, with pure speech, he expressed the holy thoughts of God. Only fire from God's altar can purge us from our sins.

IV. Isaiah's Call.

God did not call the prophet until after he was cleansed. The purged soul is the soul ready for the Lord's service. Indeed, the unconvicted, unforgiven and uncleansed soul cannot even hear the Divine call for service.

V. Isaiah's Dedication (v. 8).

Following the cleansing from sin there was the quick response for service. The one purged and sanctified and made meet for the Master's use readily responds to the call of God. They did not inquire as to the issue, did not desire to see the end from the beginning, but with freedom came forward to serve.

VI. Isaiah's Commission (vv. 9-13).

The previous outlook was not promising. He shrank back from the responsibility and instantly cried, "How long, Lord?" The people were steeped in selfishness and the Lord assured him that their blindness and sin, though long, would not continue forever. The people would go on in sin, to be taken captive and the land be made desolate.

Economy.

The regard one shows economy is like that we show an old aunt who is to leave us something at last.—Shenstone.

Conscience.

The worm of conscience is the companion of the owl. The light is shunned by sinners and evil spirits only.—Schiller.

Neighborly Love.

Love your neighbor, yet pull not down your hedge.—George Herbert.

FANCHER-MULLIN

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mullen of Cascilla, Miss., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Alta, to Mr. Joseph Roderick Fancher of Weir, Miss., the wedding to take place in June.

CURTIS-WEEKS

On Friday evening, May 4th, in the pastor's study at the Presbyterian Church in Grenada, Miss Thelma Weeks was united in marriage to Mr. J. N. Curtis of Hardy. Rev. J. R. Cunningham saying the ceremony.

Miss Weeks taught during the past year in the Wolfe and Tatum school in the Pea Ridge community and is an exceedingly lovable young woman. Mr. Curtis is station agent for the I. C. R. R. Co. at Hardy and is regarded as a man of industry and one worthy of confidence and respect.

The couple will make their home at Hardy station.

WOOD-MARTIN

On Thursday afternoon, May 10th, Mr. W. N. Wood and Miss Wylie Martin were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock, Rev J. R. Cunningham, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, saying the ceremony which was performed at the Presbyterian Manse.

Both of the contracting parties taught during the past year in the Paul school in Tallahatchie County and expect to teach there again the next session. They enjoy the respect and esteem of all who know them and each has many friends who will be interested to know of their marriage.

BAUM-CARTER

On last Friday evening, May 11th, Mr. Lewis Baum and Miss Bessie Carter were made man and wife, the ceremony being said by Rev. J. R. Cunningham, Pastor if the Presbyterian Church, at the Manse. Mr. Baum has been in Grenada for several years employed as clerk at the Planters and Grenada Hotels and Mrs. Baum has been clerk at the former since Christmas. Both have have made many friends since their stay in Grenada, all of whom congratulate the couple on their marriage.

They expect to continue making their home in Grenada.

AN ESSAY ON MAN

Man is made in the image of God, and by God, and not by the dollar. Man is the dominating creature of earth, and is the only creature with woman which are ones who have the privilege to serve a power as high as the heavens, as deep as the hell as broad as the earth, and wide as the seas. The real man in his realm and sphere of life to subdue, and have dominion of all the earth is not forgetful to humble himself in submission of his Creator, and to give thanks for all the blessings that come from the eternal kingdom.

The real man has a real love for his family, comrades and friends, and does all in his power for their safe protection in this life and the life to come. The real man is looking after his Master's business with an eagle's eye, a lion's heart, and a lady's hand.

Man in his genius drives the gorgeous ships through the savage waves of the stormy seas and with a nickle proposition he has mastered million dollar fortunes, but this kind of a man is not a dollar made man.

Man, with his five distinct senses, and with his gift of speech, and understanding, controls the beast of the fields, the fowls of the air, and the fishes of the seas.

The real man is full of fellowship, with his God looks down upon the widow and orphan with tender compassion, and creates a way that they may not perish, but have life. Man ascends to the top, decends to the bottom, and expands to the end.

The God-made man with his master mind towered the pyramids of Egypt, which have stood the storm for forty centuries, and the same man has made the tiny hair spring of a watch which keeps the balance wheel in such correct motion that there is not one second of time lost in twelve months.

The God-made man has imprisoned the father of waters, and bids the longest stream of running fluid in the world to come under his command. The same man has made the eraser of a lead pencil, that has done away with more mistakes than any one thing in the known world.

The dollar man has starved the poor with hunger, and destroyed the masses with war, worn his purple and fine linen and fared sumptuously every day, and died and gone to hell.

NO REST---NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Grenada people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask you neighbor. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. W. A. Thompson, 632 Kershaw St., Grenada, says: "My kidneys were in a terrible condition. They acted too often and caused annoyance. My back hurt all the time and I couldn't rest at night. The doctor told me my kidneys were disordered. As I had a box of Doan's Kidney Pills I thought I would try, them. They did just as represented in my case and two boxes cured me. I recommend Doan's willingly."

Mrs. Thompson gave the above statement June 13, 1918 and on April 12, 1922, she said: "I know there is no medicine like Doan's Kidney Pills for anyone troubled with weak kidneys. Several years ago my kidneys bothered me but Doan's cured me of the trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Thompson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. LIZZIE H. JONES DIED

Mrs. Lizzie H. Jones died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Thomas, on Tuesday, May 15, at 10 o'clock a. m. She had been in an exceedingly low state of health for several months.For several years she had been almost an invalid, hence her death at almost any time for quite a long while would have been but little surprise to the family, who watched her with the greatest solicitude and with the tenderest care.

Notwithstanding her advanced age and her declining health, Mrs. Jones retained a remarkable vitality, and manifested an unusually interest in current affairs and the work of the Episcopal church of which she had been so long a devoted and a most useful member.

The funeral services were conducted from All Saints Episcopal church by the Rector on Wednesday morning after which the remains were carried to Odd Fellows' cemetery and laid to rest beside those of her husband.

Mrs. Jones was born near Danville, Va., Nov. 11, 1834, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hairston. She came with her parents to Yalobusha County, Mississippi, when she was twelve years of age. At the age of 17 she became the bride of Dr. R.W. Jones, and to their marriage was born eleven children, six sons and five daughters, five of whom, four daughters and one son, survive her. Her husband died about thirty years ago.

For one to have lived eighty years means a remarkable experience. A life of that length, and especially in the eventful period in which the subject of this sketch lived, saw a great deal that has made destiny and that has been epoch-making in the history of the Nation and of the world.

Mrs. Jones was, in many respects, a remarkable woman. As a wife, she was considerate, patient, loving, frugal and thoughtful. There was no problem which came to her husband that she did not seek to aid in solving. She helped carry his burdens. As a mother, she was sacrificing and happy and was ever busy doing those things which she thought would add to the comfort and the joy of her children and make sure of their contentment in the future.

Thus she lived; thus she died. Her deeds have been written. They are of record not only here but in that realm above where the Angels dwell, and it would be hard to believe that the mother of eleven children—a devoted wife, a sincere and true character, would be given anything less than a crown with the most brilliant stars by the Great Judge who is final arbiter on the deeds and lives of men and women. To the bereft, The Sentinl tenders sincere sympathy.

RICE PRESSGROVE REPORTED TO BE IMPROVING

The friends and acquaintances of Rice Pressgrove will be rejoiced to learn that his condition is rapidly improving. Some days ago he contracted an acute case of commercial colic. The disease smacks of becoming epidemic. Thunderstorms and waterspouts are contributing forces to the disease. We understand it has broken out in Meridian, Jackson, Memphis and other points. After a close analysis of the disease by experts ,they unanimously agree that merchants should avoid overloading the stomachs of their stores and where they do contract it, the only relief in the world is to take a cut price capsule. The deeper the cut, the quicker you unload the stomach of your store. The Doctor came to see Rice and the moment he examined all the departments of his store, he soon saw the trouble and wrote out the cut price prescription. All hands got busy and the prices were cut to zero. The doors had to be closed for two days so as to do as the Doctor said. Early Saturday morning it began to thunder and Rice and the entire force began to have colic symptons, but the sun came out and visitors began to assemble so as to witness the unloading process. The unloading was brisk and all could see a visible change for the better. But listen, dear people, Monday morning was a bad day on the colic. You must have had it a little on Monday. Rice phoned the Doctor and said, "Dock, What must I do? Don't you hear that thunder? Don't you see that waterspout?" The Doctor answered quick, listen folks, Dock said, "Continue to cut your your prices and extend your unload remedy one more week. Keep your feet dry and when a drummer comes in your store tell him to go to the dickens Yes, continue the unload remedy one more week." So gentle readers, Pressgrove's Colic Sale is good for one more week. "I'm going to do as Dock says. Unload I can and unload I must."

DODGE BROTHERS FLAT RATES PLAN REDUCES SERVICE CHARGES

What is meant by "flat rates service,"

Much discussion of this subject is heard among motor car owners, but it is evident, from the nature of these conservations, that many have only a vague idea of its real significance. As a matter of fact, flat rates service, as applied by the leading automobile dealers, is not definable in a single sentence.

"In the first place," according to Meek Motor Co., local dealers for Dodge Brothers, "it means that a careful study was made of the thousands of operations that might enter into the repairing of a motor car. On the basis of these time-studies, reasonable time allowances for every conceivable service job were established, and the mechanic is required to complete each job within the allotted time.

"When an owner brings his car to the service station for repairs," says Mr. Meek, "we are able to quote him a positive figure for the work to be done. We are also enabled to give him a definite delivery promise, with the knowledge that the car will come out of the shop on time. Thus, the owner has no possible ground for complaints, either as to price or delivery. In short, flat rates service means that the service station is able to tell the owner exactly how long it will take to repair his car and the price of such repairs. It permits the selling of service on a business-like basis.

"We have found positively," concludes Mr. Meek, "that this method not only reduces the charges to our car owners, but it improves the quality of our service work. It is the nearest thing to perfection that I have ever seen in the line of service efficiency."

RED BIRD IS FEATURE OF OVERLAND SERIES

Willys-Overland Company Brings Out New Model With Longer Wheel Base, More Powerful Engine and Complete Equipment.

The 1923 series of the Overland has lately been added to, by bringing out of a remarkably triumphant combination of beauty and utility, finished in Mandalay Maroon, called the Red Bird. In addition to embodying in an unusual degree the essentials of skillful design and solidity of construction, this model is specially notable for the complete equipment it carries on leaving the factory.

The Red Bird is characterized by the installation of a number of refinements and conveniences, all necessities for complete motoring satisfaction, that point indisputably to greater values for the purchaser. This latest model is a brilliant accomplishment by the Willys-Overland Company and as usual represents a successful effort to provide up-to-date and economical transportation for the American public.

In general appearance the Red Bird is a creation striking to the eye without overstepping the bounds of refined taste. Mandalay Maroon is a subtle shading of red for the body, that pleases with rare artistic conformity, neither making the car glaringly conspicuous and vulgarly apparent.

It is an illustration of fine, well bred coloring that is in direct contrast to standardized, slap dash paint jobs, where something out of the ordinary is the aim and no thought given to possible jarring effects on the vision. Mandalay is also a shade that will stand up under the most exacting weather conditions and not influenced by the rays of the summer suns or the rigors of frost and dampness.

Combined with this artistic blending is the Khaki top of serviceable material that will also hold its own in all seasons. And with this happy conjunction of tan and maroon are sprinkled the glistening nickeled trimmings on the radiator, head lamps, bumpers, windshield stanchions, scuff plates and frame of the rear curtain window light.

Picture this handsome association of nickel, tan and Mandalay Maroon and the sketch is concluded in an exceptionally delightful range of harmony in color tones. Add to this the intrinsic mechanical advantages obtained in the Red Bird and the effect is consummated.

The Red Bird is on display in the show rooms of the Grenada Auto Co., local dealers.

WHEN you buy Goodyear Tires from us you get a quality product, at the lowest price at which that quality can be bought, and you also get a service that will help you get from those tires all the mileage built into them at the factory. There's the net of quality, price, and service, and of economy, too.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

CONNER MAKES MANLY STATEMENT

For a number of years past a favorite method of the demagogues who have been a curse to the political life of Mississippi has been the attempt to play upon the supposed demerits of their opponents, rather than to advocate their own merits. The reasons are obvious—they usually had no merits.

In the present campaign there have been many insinuations against Speaker Sennett Conner for what they have pleased to term his "lack of war record." Mr. Conner has been patient under the continued taunts.

On Tuesday evening, however, while speaking at Hazlehurst, and at a most opportune time, he delivered a clear-cut manly statement regarding the matter—one amply satisfactory to every unprejudiced mind, and one which the majority of the people will receive gladly.

We carried the statement in our news columns on yesterday and those who read it could not fail to note the sincerity of no circumlocution. He went right into the heart of the matter no circumlocation. He went right into the heart of the matter in one single sentence.

"I was able to go. I was willing to go, and I would have gone except that the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States and the Adjutant General of Mississippi told me that my post of duty was here."

This one simple sentence is sufficient, but in connection with the full statement completely clarifies the atmosphere.

That he was introduced by an ex-service man, and the commander of the local post of the American Legion gave added weight to his words.

In the introduction Mr. Montgomery stated:

"I am as well qualified to speak as any other ex-service man, as I had four brothers besides myself 'over there,' and one didn't come back. I know Mike Conner volunteered his services and I say this as an ex-service man to let you know that I think he did his duty as we did ours."

And that's that!

Sennett Conner is a statesman, thoroughly qualified for the governorship, and is as clean as a hound's tooth in his moral life. That he is leading the field is not surprising, and wherever he speaks he adds numbers to his supporters.

Really it is Conner over the field.

The above is from the pen of Rev. G. S. Harmon, a Methodist minister of Poplarville, Miss. What this Godly man states is but the sentiment that is being echoed from one end of the State to the other.

ONE FARMER'S EXPERIENCE

Mr. H. R. Finn is a farmer-dairyman living near Cordele, Ga. He has 14 cows, and ships the cream from his dairy to the Cordele Creamery. His cash receipts for cream in November were $260.15, for December $268.85 and for January $284.

Mr. Finn paid nothing for feed, as he raises all the feed on his own farm; he paid out nothing for labor, milking the cows himself. In addition he had the skimmed milk from these 14 cows to feed his hogs and chickens and the fertilizer to enrich his farm.

Mr. Finn's place is a 20-horse farm. On it in 1922 he raised 103 bales of cotton and did not have to go in debt one penny for the raising. The creamery checks enabled him to pay cash for what he bought.

The above taken from the Industrial Index, Columbus, Ga. indicates that the interest now manifested in the dairy business is growing all over the South. Many small farms all over the country are being financed on the cash basis by a few cows that furnish a cream check every week. We have many of them in this country and every week sees numbers added to the list. This means that more people are growing independent with the aid of the cow, which carries with her pigs and chickens and everything that is needed to make life on the farm cheap and supply the table bountifully with the best and most wholesome of food. Lee county has caught the step as is evidenced by the long line of cream wagons and trucks and cars that line up every morning in front of the Tupelo Creamery.
—Tupelo Journal.

What can be done and is being done near Cordele, Ga., and in Lee County, Mississippi, can be done in Grenada County. And it seems to us that the dairy cow furnishes the average farmer one of the certain avenues to debt-paying and financial independence.

From the way the mud batteries are being turned on Mike Conner, it looks like that it is the field against Conner.

[illegible] APPOINTMENT OF GEORGE R. JAMES

The Sentinel feels that the cotton farmer and this particular section are fortunate in the appointment of Mr. George R. James of Memphis to be a member of the Federal Reserve Bank Board. Mr. James is one of the leading business factors of the South. He lives in Memphis. He has shown by what he has endeavored to do within the past few years that he is desperately in earnest in trying to aid the farmers and others of this section in solving their problems and in getting a square deal in the business world. Particularly has Mr. James given much time to Mississippi. He is just a plain, practical man. There is nothing highfalutin about him. He believes in going at things and after things much after the fashion of the successful farmer and business man of a quarter of a century ago.

President Harding conferred a special favor on this section when he named Mr. James for this very important place. And if there is anything that can be done which has not already been done for the cotton farmer, George R. James will see that it is done, otherwise there will be some stormy sessions of the Federal Reserve Bank board.

GRENADA COUNTY'S ROAD IS BUILT.

For several years previous to the somewhat stormy road conference held here in 1916, there was much being said through the central portion of the State about a north and south highway. In the language of the "old home town," some of the counties seemed to need "Newt" to hold them, they were "arearin to go." Seven years have passed. There is no graveled road immediately north of this County nor immediately south of it, yet Grenada County's link was built two years ago. There are many missing links in both directions. The counties between here and Holly Springs, which were fairly foaming at the mouth to get in on the Jefferson Davis highway, have balked at the foot of the hills. They have done practically nothing. For the sake of what they promised, they should get busy at once. Let them come to Grenada County and take some lessons. Grenada's graveled highway is conceded to be one of the best in the state.

THE DIFFERENT STANDARDS?

The automobile manufacturer measures the progress of a state by the number of automobiles owned and purchased; the health authorities by the amount of money being spent in health work; the school man by the number of "consolidated," "agricultural" and "accredited schools" and "A-grade" colleges and the amount being spent for education; the road enthusiast by the amount being spent for roads and the Christian ministry by the number of new churches and new parsonages being built and the amount being collected for the various church actities. Who is right? There is no Solomon to answer, but the ordinary mind cannot help but think that they are all about half wrong.

HOW ABOUT STREET OILING?

The City Council should not delay ordering the oil for the purpose of oiling the streets which are not on the proposed paving list. Regardless of whether the paving is done or not, those who have been having oiling done do not want the dust, and if the oiling is to be done, it is the part of wisdom not to defer until midsummer. So while so much attention is being given to the matter of paving, we are sure that the Council does not want to overlook those not on the streets which are considering the matter of paving.

Some politicans are against Conner because he believes in a law that will give the people the right to turn out of office an incompetent and unfaithful officer who wastes or misuses the money paid in by the taxpayers. But if a bank official ought to be dismissed for incompetency or unfaithfulness, why not an officer? The average politician wants his job secure and he believes in nothing that will encourage the people to watch what he is doing with public money.

I don't like to confess it, but I had rather hear a hand organ turned by an Italian with a red or blue handkerchief tied about his throat than listen to grand opera.

The above is taken from Ex-Gov. Patterson's "Day by Day" in Commercial Appeal. The Governor's confession represents about 90 men out of every 100.

Statistics show that Germany lost 1,846,293 and that she had 1,537,000 wounded during the war. There were 533,000 of her women made widows and that 1,134,000 children were left fatherless.

FINE RESULTS FROM REVIVAL

Fifty Five Conversions. Twenty Seven Get Church Letters.

The revival services at Presbyterian church conducted by Dr. Trigg A .M. Thomas closed last Monday night with an old time "Experience meeting," which was inspiring and which showed what a wonderful consolation a hope in Christ and a reliance upon the promises of God are to those who have put their trust in a crucified and Risen Lord. There were many beautiful statements. Certainly there were many present who did not speak out who wanted to do so and others who caught the real lesson of life and who determined in their heart of hearts to accept the terms laid down by the Savior which insure greater peace and more contentment here and life everlasting beyond the grave.

Dr. Thomas did some wonderful work. He is a plain talker. He presents the truths of the gospel in what some may term an "old fashioned" way.

There were 55 professions of faith; 17 united with the Presbyterian church and ten more indicated an intention to do so at an early day. There were 27 to say that they would get their church letters and place them in the churches of their choice.

O. H. PERRY IN THE RACE FROM DISTRICT 2.

The Sentiel is authorized to place the name of Mr. O. H. Perry in its announcement column as a candidate for the very important office of Supervisor from district 2.

Mr. Perry has done service as a supervisor before, and he made a good, faithful and painstaking official. He was critical when it was necessary to be critical, He was exacting when it was demanded and he did not mind "speaking out in the meeting." Thus it may be said that he seeks a place the duties of which are not unfamiliar to him, and, that ripened by years of experience and of observation, he should be capable of making even a better official than he did before.

He knows the economic conditions of the people of the County and it may be safely said that he will insist upon that economy in making expenditures that is consistent with sound business and that accords with the ability of the people to pay.

Mr. Perry was born and reared in Grenada County perhaps within one mile of where he now resides. He comes of one of the best families of the county and is known for his sincerity of action and for his honesty and his integrity of purpose. If he is chosen supervisor, The Sentinel feels sure that he will meet the duties of the office to the very best of his ability.

WOULD MAKE GOOD STATE SENATOR

Grady Cook Wants to Represent Calhoun County.

The Sentinel observes from the Calhoun Monitor-Herald that Grady Cook has announced himself as a candidate for State Senator from that County. This paper has no disposition to butt in on the affairs of a sister County and means no reflection whatever on the other gentlemen seeking this same office, yet it cannot refrain from saying, that, regardless of who else is in the race, it does not believe the people of that County could get a more capable or a more faithful Senator at this time than Grady Cook.

He knows the needs of the average Mississippian, and most people of the entire State are what may be termed of the "average" class. In whatever place he has been tried, he has displayed that tact, that judgment and that discretion which are indespenable in the accomplishment of any important task. He is young but not too young. He is aggressive without the daring. He is wise in planning and untiring in action. He is honest and dependable in all things, and thus it may properly be said that he possesses that happy combination of training, experience and of character that peculiarly fit him to represent his County in the State's chief law-making branch of the legislature and The Sentinel but voices the wish of many hundreds of Grady Cook's friends among Mississippi's newspapers and of others throughout the State in stating that it hopes he will realize his ambition and that he will be a member of the next State Senate.

ROBERT M. WOOD FOR CONSTABLE

The Sentinel is authorized to announce Robert M. Wood as a candidate for constable in district 1.

Mr. Wood is an industrious, trustworthy, persevering and hard working young man, and it therefore may be assumed that if chosen constable, that he will apply that same diligence and that same industry and that same intelligence to the discharge of his official duties that he does about his personal affairs. He is clever and obliging and those who know him best seem to like him best, which is a good endorsement of him.

Mr. Wood enlisted in the service of his country during the World-War and made a splendid record as a soldier.

From what is known of Mr. Wood it seems safe to assert that he will not occupy his time, should he be made constable, with hunting for the trivial offender while his eyes are closed to the larger and more serious offenses. Mr. Wood will no doubt lay his claims before the voters of the district in person.

"THE LIFE WHICH IS THE BLOOD" GEN. 9-4.

No Statement in All Biblical Literature Contains More of Truth, and None Has Been so Universally Neglected to the Great Detriment of the Health and Bodily Vigor of Mankind

THE BLOOD CONTAINS THE LIFE, THEREFORE THE BLOOD MUST BE KEPT PURE, IF WE WOULD BE HEALTHY.

The RE-CU-MA way is Nature's Way.

Modern civilization offers many obstacles to pure blood. In order to keep the blood pure the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels must be kept active. These are Nature's Eliminators. They are to destroy and rid the body of wastes, dead tissues and cells, which must be eliminated if the blood is to be kept pure.

Modern civilization renders this difficult. Our Forefathers walked much. They exercised freely in the open air. We ride and do not get the exercise needed by our bodies to keep the vital organs active and at work.

Our Forefathers ate whole wheat bread. The bran was there, and the bran was put there by nature to enable the intestines and bowels to properly remove the wastes and poisons. We use only the finest, whitest bread and the bran has all been removed.

Our Forefathers raised and killed their own meat, which was fresh and full of natural juices. We eat meat filled with preservatives and kept in cold storage sometimes for months.

Our Forefathers slept eight to nine hours—they retired early, but we have electric lights and our nervous systems rarely get the peaceful quiet sleep and rest so badly need. We are not living natural but artificial lives, and as a result of this we need more medicines to assist nature to do the things that will keep us well, than at any time in the history of our race.

The Remedy that will more nearly accomplish the results needed in the way nature intended is therefore the best remedy. RE-CU-MA eliminates the impurities and poisons by Nature's method. RE-CU-MA stimulates and makes active the kidneys—one of the most important poison eliminators in the entire body. RE-CU-MA stimulates and makes active the Liver and Bowels.

The Kidneys and Bowels are the Natural Avenues of poison Elimination. RE-CU-MA acts quickly and positively on both of these important organs. Unless these succeed in ridding the system of its impurities, the skin, which is the third eliminator, breaks out into pimples, blotches, sores, boils, etc.

When these appear they are your danger signals that the Liver, Bowels and Kidneys are not ridding your system of its poisons. Heed the warning. Indeed be wise. Do not wait until the skin is rendered unsightly by the appearance of these eruptions. Take RE-CU-MA. Soon your appetite will improve - Your skin will become clear - Your cheeks rosy - Your digestion will improve - Your strength and energy return. Rich, red life giving blood will course through your veins and you will tingle with health and life will be a real pleasure.

RE-CU-MA will do all this and will do it quickly.

RE-CU-MA is on sale in Grenada by 2d Class Drug Store and by almost all good druggists.

Charles Kinard

WINS HONORS AT A. & M. COLLEGE

Charles Kinard is distinguishing himself at the A. & M. College to the delight of his many Grenada friends. On Saturday night, May 5, this young man won the Freshman Gold Medal in Declamation. At the Commencement of the Grenada High School, last year, Charles was awarded a merit medal by the Wednesday Study Club, he having been rated as the most meritorious student in the High School. This boy was reared sixteen miles from the railroad and never rode on a railroad train until he entered a high school. He has come up under many adverse circumstances but fortunately has the determination, the zeal and the ambition to excel and will certainly never disappoint the many friends he has won in Grenada and elsewhere. He is just another illustration of what a boy can do who wills to do it.

HERRMAN THE GREAT AT GRENADA OPERA HOUSE

Felix Hermann, the Great, last of the celebrated family of magicians and conjurers, French by birth but an American citizen, successor of Alexander Hermann the Great, the most famous magician that ever lived, is booked with his company of entertainers for two days at the Grenada Opera House, commencing Monday.

Phroso the startling European doll act will also be presented in connection with Hermann's show.

Mlle. Gladys is also an extra feature, the girl with the radio mind, answering all inquiries from the stage without the usual question system. Mlle. Gladys will be remembered by many as the famous European prophetess who prophecied the World's War and many other events that followed, being the comment of the newspapers of the world at that time.

Besides the above, the regular picture programm will be presented.

THE RAIN, THE RIVER AND THE CROPS

The heavy rains this week have served to still further handicap farm work. There was an awfully heavy rain last Saturday afternoon and then again Monday, with the result that the Yalobusha river is overflowing its banks and its waters have covered much land contiguous to the river that has either beeen planted or is about ready to plant. The farmers started in late this Spring on account of the continued rains and the cold weather and it has rained so much that instead of catching up with their work they have gotten still further behind.

TEACHERS ATTENTION

North-west Mississippi Intercounty Normal will open at Senatobia, Miss., May 28.

This is an opportunity for teachers to secure the advantages of a first-class normal at moderate cost. With a splendid faculty, an ideal location and a progressive town our success is assured. Board in the dormitories will be $22.50 for the entire term. From present indications every room in the dormitories will be reserved before the Normal opens. Rooms may be secured in town at reasonable rates.

The citizens of Senatobia and Tate County invite you to the Normal and we assure you that we will do all in our power to make your stay here pleasant and your work worth-while.

Yours for success and service,
Senatobia, Miss. P. W. BERRY

MEETING OF HOLCOMB WOMAN'S CLUB

The Holcomb Woman's Demonstration Club met at the Methodist Church at Holcomb Monday afternoon with a large attendance. The subject for the afternoon was "Conservation of Fruits and Vegetables for Winter Use," which was interestingly discussed by Mesdames S. J. Curle, Morrow, Holcomb and Elliott. These ladies do quite a bit of canning and know what it means to have an adequate supply of canned fruits and vegetables for winter use. Miss Kate Lee, Home Economics Agent, was unable to be present on account of the heavy rainfall that morning.

A GRADUATION PRESENT SALE

All Saints Church Guild will hold a Graduation Present Sale and miscellaneous bazaar Saturday in the building formerly occupied by the Railroad Wreck Store next door to First Aid Garage. You will find just what you want for that sweet girl or boy graduate. The ladies will also serve sandwiches and coffee as well as sell cakes and delicious home-made candies. Be sure and come with plenty of change, as you will not be able to resist the tempting delicacies offered for sale Saturday.

WILL TAKE OVER JAS. HORTON'S STORE

Mr. E. N. Avant and Mrs. J. E. White have purchased the stock of dry goods, shoes and general merchandise of Jas. Horton on Green St., and after June 1, the style of the firm will be E. N Avant & Co. Mr. Avant comes to Grenada from Carroll County and is a man of exceptional character and splendid business ability. Mrs. White is known to her friends as a woman of many fine traits of character and as one who possesses her full share of good commonsense.

There is no doubt but that the new firm will meet with success.

SENIOR PIANO RECITAL

On Monday night, May 7, Grenada College School of Music presented Miss Lucile Beevers in a Senior Piano Recital.

Miss Beevers rendered a very attractive program. Each number was played artistically and with feeling and showed clearly the ability and workings of a musician.

Misses Jordan and Kleiser assisted in place of Miss Lura Aven who was unable to appear on account of illness.,

Ripe, juicy, luscious strawberries, tucked close together between thick layers of light, rich cake—that's when a boy's in luck!

Made with Valier's Dainty Flour, strawberry shortcake is of a rare distinctive flavor such as no ordinary flour can give. The whole family will enjoy it.

Milled by a special slow process from the very choicest of soft winter wheat, Dainty costs a little more than ordinary flour. But you are sure of better baking, and you use less lard. Order a sack of Dainty Flour—today.

CHAPTER VII

Bolsa Gap.

Sheriff Jordan had a high-powered car purchased, not so much from the fees of his office as with his perquisites, a word covering a wide range of possibilities, all of which the sheriff made the most of. He had taken up his brother-in-law's grievance with the greater zest since he had a half-interest in Plimsoll's Good Luck pool parlors, a share that had cost him good money. On top of that had come Sandy's flouting of him on the bridge in front of the sheriff's own followers. He had to save his face, politically as well as personally.

Armed with the necessary warrant, backed by an assurance that, unless some extraordinary howl went up, the girl would be given into the custody of Jim Plimsoll as guardian, by virtue of his claim to partnership with her father, the sheriff, Plimsoll and two others, all three deputized for the occasion, he had started at a quarter of twelve, after an early lunch. At a few minutes after twelve they reached Three Star, where Buck, seated on the porch, his saddle astride a sawhorse, stitched away at a cinch.

Buck played his part well, allowing Jordan to ferret out information to his own satisfaction. It appeared plain that all three partners had taken flight with the girl in the buckboard.

"Someone tipped this thing off," Jordan said sternly to Buck. "Who was it?"

"Meanin' this visit's offishul?" asked Buck. "What's it fo', Sheriff? Moonshine or hawss stealin'?" He spoke in a jesting note, his weathered face impassive as the shell of a walnut, but Plimsoll scowled, noting the turn of Buck's bland countenance in his direction for the first time. It was whispered that the brands on Plimsoll's horse ranch were not those usually known in the county, nor even in the counties adjoining. There were rumors, smothered by Plimsoll's stand with the authorities, of bands of horses, driven by strangers, arriving wearied—and always by night—at his corrals.

"It don't matter—to you—what it's for," answered Jordan. "I'll overhaul 'em an' bring 'em back. Ef they try hide-out tactics or put up a scrap, it'll be kidnapin' an' that's a penal offense."

Buck whistled.

"Thought you wasn't goin' to let me know," he said. "It's the gel."

"Who's been here to tip it off?" asked Jordan.

Buck looked at him serenely, took a plug of chewing from his pocket, took his knife, opened it deliberately and slowly cut off a corner of the tobacco.

"Search me," he drawled. "Me, I don't stay up to the house."

Jordan, temporarily discomfited but still confident of bringing back his quarry, marked the trail of the buckboard in the alkali soil, noted the hoof-prints of the diverging riders and nodded with the semi-smile and half-closed eyes of conscious superiority. He had already elicited apparently reluctant information from Pedro as to the four passengers in the buckboard.

"You 'tendin' ranch?" Jordan asked Buck.

"Yep. Till I get fresh orders."

"I'll bring you back those orders, also yore bosses, before sundown."

Buck permitted himself his first grin.

"You'll have to go some," he said. "Goin' to bring 'em back in irons? Figgerin' on abduction?"

Jordan gave no hint of how Buck's shaft might have targeted his intentions, but climbed into the car and started it. Reaching the lava strip where the buckboard had halted for water and the noon meal, they found the trail skirting the flow toward the south. The main mass of the mesa, broken up into gorges, gaps, stairway cliffs, marked by purple shadows, scanty in the early afternoon but gradually widening, was about fifty miles away. Jordan turned to one of his deputies.

"Which way do you figger they're headin', Phil?" he asked. "Is there a cut or a pass through the mesa?"

"Dam'fino. One thing's sure an' certain. Them fellers from the Three Star usually know where they are headin'. Trail's plain."

"Sure is." But Jordan scratched his head a trifle doubtfully. If Sandy Bourke and his chums had been tipped off, this trail was a little too plain to be true.

"They're on about us gettin' the papers," said Plimsoll. He had not said much on the trip so far. "Too much talk nowadays. Bourke sabes that getting the girl out of the county won't do any good; he aims to get her out of the state and any Arizona court or sheriff jurisdiction. He's the brains of the outfit. We've got to get her, Jordan."

"You ain't tellin' me a thing I don't know, Jim. But there's one thing you can tell me. Is that tip you got about Dynamite a sure one?"

Plimsoll, sitting beside Jordan, flashed him a look of contempt.

"Do you think I'm chasing this girl because I'm stuck on her? One of the party with this eastern crowd dropped into my place and talked. Here is where I get back the money I put up to grubstake Casey."

Jordan gave him a grin of derision.

"You an' yore grubstake," he jeered.

Plimsoll said nothing more.

"No shootin' in this deal," Jordan warned. "Come to a showdown, Bourke won't buck the law soon's we show papers. So long's he ain't been notified the court is makin' a ward of the girl they ain't done nothin' wrong. But—if he resists, that's different."

"I ain't goin' to be awful anxious to start shootin'," said Jim. "Sandy Bourke's a two-handed lead flinger an' Soda-Water Sam's no slouch. Neither's Mormon. Me, I'll be peaceable 'less it's forced on me otherwise."

They entered the split in the mesa. The floor was fairly smooth, swept clean by occasional cloudbursts, save for the skeleton of a tree and another of a too-far wandering steer, both blanched white as the alkali-crusted bowlders. It was nearly level going and the car pounded along, all the occupants looking for trail sign.

"Keep an eye peeled for rain," said Jordan. "I'd sure hate to get caught in here with a cloudburst."

Ahead was an abrupt turn. Jordan slowed. Making the curve, a fence stretched across the gorge, reaching from wall to wall, a four-strand barrier of barbed-wire, strung on patent steel posts. Jordan braked with emergency. The sight of such a fence in such a place was as unexpected as the sun-dried carcass of a steer would be on Broadway. Plimsoll and Jordan cursed, the former in pure anger, the latter with some appreciation of the stratagem for delay.

"We can tear it down quicker'n they fixed it," he said. "I've got a pair of nippers in the tool kit. They can't have driven in those posts deep. Come on."

A voice floated down to them.

"You leave that fence alone, gents, if you please. I went to a heap of trouble puttin' up that fence. It's my fence."

They looked up, to see Mormon seated on the top of a great bowlder that had land-slipped from the cliff into the gorge. From thirty feet above them he looked down, amiably enough, though there was a glint of blued metal in his right hand.

Jordan advanced to the foot of the rock, producing his papers.

"I have a bench warrant here to bring into court for the appointment of a proper guardian, the child Molly Casey, she being a minor and without natural or legal protectors. I've got yore name on those papers, Mormon Peters, as one of the three parties with whom the girl is now domiciled. I warn you that you are obstructing the process of the law by yore actions. You put up that gun an' come down here an' help to pull down this fence, illegally erected on property not yore own. Otherwise you're subject to arrest."

"That is sure an awful long speech fo' a hot day," said Mormon equably. "But I don't sabe that talk at all. Molly Casey ain't here, to begin with. Nor she ain't been here. An' I don't sabe no obstruction of the law by settin' up a fence in a mesa canyon to round up broom-tails."

One of the deputies snickered.

"Broom-tails?" cried Jordan. "That's too thin. There's no mustangs hangin' round a mesa like this, 'thout feed or water." He flushed angrily.

"You never kin tell about wild hawses, or even branded ones," said Mormon pleasantly. "Ask Plimsoll. He picks 'em up in all sorts of places."

Plimsoll cursed. Mormon still held his gun conspicuously, and he restrained his own impulse to draw.

"You come down an' help remove this fence," Jordan shouted up at the smiling Mormon, "or I'll start something. It ain't on yore property and it's hindering the carrying out of my warrant."

"It ain't on a public highway neither," retorted Mormon. "But I'll come down. Don't go to clippin' those wires an' destroyin' what is my property." He slid down the rock and commenced to unbend the metal straps that held the wire in place. Jordan and one of his men followed suit with pliers from the motor kit. The job took several minutes.

"You'll come along with us," said Jordan. "You lied about the girl comin' this way. I've a notion to take you in for that. But I reckon you can go back in the buckboard with yore partners."

"Reckon I'll travel in the buckboard, when you catch up with it," said Mormon. "But I'll come erlong with you fo' a spell—of my own free will. I don't see no harm in takin' the gel visitin', anyway," he concluded as he took an extra seat in the tonneau.

Jordan made no answer but started the engine. The way zigzagged for half a mile and then they came to a second fence. No buckboard was in sight. Leaning against a post stood Soda-Water Sam, smoking a cigarette, his gun holster hitched forward, the butt of the weapon close to one hand. Jordan and his men leaped out as the car stopped, Mormon following more slowly.

"Afternoon, hombres all," said Sam. "Joy-ridin'?"

Jordan wasted no more explanations.

"You take down this fence," he fairly shouted.

"What fo'?"

"Ask yore partner."

"Sheriff claims we're cumberin' the landscape with our li'l corral, Sam," said Mormon. "He's got a paper that gives him right of way, he says. Seen anything of Molly Casey?"

"Not for quite a spell. Go easy with them wires, Sheriff. Price of wire's riz considerable."

The second barrier down and the car through, Jordan ordered Sam to get in the car.

"Jump, or I'll put the cuffs on you," he said.

"Not this trip," replied Sam coolly. "No sense in my climbin' in there. Me an' Mormon's through with our li'l job. We'll go back in the buckboard. It's round the bend. I was jest goin' to hitch up."

Jordan glared unbelievingly, yet Sam's words carried conviction.

"Yo're sure goin' to have trouble turnin' yore car right here," Sam went on imperturbably. "Kind of mean to back down, too. It's worse higher up. Matter of fac' the gap peters out jest round the turn. Look for yo'self, if you don't believe me."

Jordan and Plimsoll strode on up the pitch. Mormon followed, Sam stayed with the two deputies. Around the bend stood the buckboard with the buckskins in a patch of shadow under a scoop in the ending wall that turned the so-called pass to a box canyon.

"I told you the gel warn't erlong," said Mormon. "She and Sandy was with us fo' a spell. But they're goin' visitin' an' they shifted to saddle way back, out there by the spring beside the lava strip."

Mormon's bland smile masked a sterner intent than showed in his eyes. Jordan, furious at being outwitted, dared not provoke open combat. Mormon hitched up the buckskins, but followed the sheriff and the scowling, silent Plimsoll back to the car.

"See that notch, way over to the no'th?" said Mormon, bent on exploiting the situation to the full. "I reckon Sandy and the gel's shackin' through there about now. Hawss trail only. 'Fraid you won't catch him, Sheriff. They aim to ketch the seven o'clock train at Caroca. It's the on'y pass over the mesa. If Sandy had knowed you wanted him he might have waited. Why didn't you phone? Ninety mile' around the mesa, nearest way, an' it must be all of five o'clock now, by the sun."

He stopped, puzzled by the change in the sheriff's face. Chagrin had given place to exultation.

"Catch the seven o'clock train at Caroca?" said Jordan. "Thanks for the information, Mormon. That schedule was changed last week when they pulled off two trains on the main line. The train leaves at nine-thirty, an', if I can't make ninety miles in four hours an' a half, I'll make you a present of my car. Stand back, both of you. No monkey business with my tires. Cover 'em, boys. The law's on my side, you two gabbing word-shooters."

He handled the car wonderfully, backing and turning her, and, while Mormon and Sam stood powerless, the former crestfallen, the latter sardonically gazing at his partner, the machine went tilting, snorting down the gorge.

"You sure spilled the beans, Mormon," said Sam finally. "I'd have thought them three wives of yores 'ud have taught you the vally of silence."

"I ain't got a d—d word to say, Sam. But I'd be obliged if you'd kick me—good. Use yore heels, I see you got yore spurs on."

CHAPTER VIII

The Pass of the Goats.

In the throat of the gorge the sun shone red on the tawny cliffs. It was close to seven o'clock. Sandy's lean face was anxious. The girl drooped in her seat, tired from the long climb, not yet inured to the saddle.

Sandy had only once crossed the Pass of the Goats and that was years before. There had been washouts since then. Several times they were forced to dismount and lead the nervous beasts, Sandy doing the coaxing, helping Molly over the difficult places. He rode a mare named Goldie and the girl a bay with a white blaze that Sandy had chosen for the mountain work and which had been brought to them at the lava strip.

The mare halted, neck stretched out, turning it to look inquiringly at her master. A sharp incline lay ahead, the path little better than one made by the goats for which the pass was named. Behind, Molly's mount followed suit, blowing at the dust. Sandy patted the mare's neck and dismounted.

"Yo're sure game, Molly," he said admiringly; "you must be clean tuckered out."

She shook her head with an attempt at a smile.

"I'll be glad when we start goin' down, fer a change," she admitted, looking into the gloomy trough of the canyon through which the night wind soughed.

"I'll tighten up yore cinches," said Sandy. "Worst of the climb's jest ahead. Then we start to drop down t'other side. You don't have to git off." He tugged at the leathers, his knee against the bay's ribs as she grunted.

"You ain't much furtheh to go, li'l hawss," he chatted on. "Downhill all the way soon, an' then a drink to wash out yore mouth an' the best feed in Caroca fo' the pair of you."

"Gits dark mighty quick up here," said the girl.

A great cloud was ballooning above them, like a dirigible that had lost buoyancy and was bumping along the mesa ridge. Its belly was black, its western side ruddy in the sunset. Sandy viewed it apprehensively. The cloud was soggy with moisture. Bursting, it would send torrents roaring down every ravine, wash out weathered masses of earth, sweep all before it as it gathered forces and rushed out on the desert.

Where Molly and Sandy rode they were exposed to the first drench of a cloudburst. Deeper in the pass, where the flood would be confined, their chance for escape would be infinitesimal.

SAYS SHE CAN NOT PRAISE IT ENOUGH

Shreveport Woman Declares that Stella Vitae has Made Her Feel Like a New Person.

"Positively, I feel like a new person altogether ever since taking this Stella Vitae treatment," said Mrs. Daisy C. Lawson, of 1512 Kenneth Avenue, Shreveport, Louisiana.

"I was very much run down" she continued," and felt tired and out of sorts all the time. I felt so weak and languid that it was an effort to do anything and those miserable headaches that would come on made me suffer awful and I never could seem to get rid of them, try as I might.

"I knew that my health was on the decline and I was all the time trying some new remedy recommended by my friends, but nothing seemed to help me till I got hold of Stella Vitae. Soon after I began taking this treatment I felt better and stronger and when those awful headaches left me I just felt fine. Stella Vitae did me all the good in the world and I just can't praise it enough for what it has done for me."

Note—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold under the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded it it fails to bring relief. Druggists are supplied from the Van Vleet Mansfield Drug Co., Memphis, Tenn.

JUDGE CLAYTON D. POTTER

Desires an Election at Hands of People.

The Sentinel has been commissioned to formally state to its readers that Judge Clayton D. Potter, the present State Attorney General, desires an election at the hands of the people to this important office. When Attorney General Frank Robertson resigned something like sixty days ago, Gov. Russell named Judge Potter to the vacancy.

It has been a sort of puzzle to many people as to why Gov. Russell named Judge Potter, but the explanation is given that even the monarch of the regions below does some good things in order to make an occasional show of decency, thereby hoping to beguile the world. But this aside, it is the duty the voters owe themselves to inquire into the moral integrity, the ability and the past achievements —to weigh the candidates in all their bearings and surroundings and to vote for the one whom they think will the most faithfully and conscientiously discharge the duties of the office of Attorney General. Indeed this is a pretty safe standard in applying the test to any candidate.

Judge Potter comes from one of the honored families of Hinds County. He is regarded as a good lawyer and as an upright man. His honesty is unquestioned and if there is one who can point to any breach of professional trust or to a failure to meet to the best of his ability any duty committed to him, this paper has never heard of it .

He served by appointment of Gov. Bilbo for a part of a term on the supreme bench and there he measured well up to the standards maintained by his associates on the bench.

Judge Potter is closely related to Judge Wiley Potter, who has been serving the Hinds County district as circuit judge and who was elected the last time without opposition.

Unquestionably he enjoys the confidence and the esteem of the best citizens of Jackson where he lives, and he has been connected with some of the most important litigation, suits involving several hundred thousand dollars, which have been before the courts of the State for many years.

With his standing as a citizen and as a lawyer, with his record as a Judge and as an officer of the courts and as attorney general, it is safe to say that the same rule of conduct will characterize him, should he be elected for the full term. The Sentinel believes him to be absolutely honest and when honesty is an established rule in a man's life, he is at least a pretty safe one to deal with.

The Sentinel feels sure that an intelligent weighing of all the candidates for this important office will be had, and it feels sure that the voters of the State will be fair in considering the candidacy of Judge Potter, and that they will not fail to take into consideration the many things being urged by his friends and his supporters in his behalf.

If Mrs. J .H. Murray, will call at The Sentinel office she will be presented with a free ticket to the "The Gentleman from America," featuring Hoot Gibson, which will be shown at Grenada Opera House next Friday, May 25.

Pressgrove's COLIC SALE WILL BE CONTINUED

Owing to thunder and water spouts all over the land, and especially around Grenada the Colic complaint is spreading fast. In the beginning it seemed to be confined tomerchants but we are reliably informed that it has struck our farmers, and the experts call it Agricultural Colic. They say its bad. Surely, these are trying days. Let this be as it may as for us we are going to do as our Doctor says, and unload the stomach of our store. So we extend the time for unloading one more week. Yes, the time

Extended One More Week

Now don't put off your buying, because the Sale has been extended. Come while you can. Secure your sizes, and before the unloading goes too far. Bring your families. Your Spring goods at a big reduction in price.
